Lake Cowichan Secondary School is a first-class facility with state-of-the-art computer labs, a technology center, a practical arts building, library, and theatre. The school boasts a small student body that enables LCSS to become its own small community. This past March, Lake Cowichan Secondary School was voted the most improved secondary school in the District of Columbia. The growth of the school is tremendous and is a great opportunity for any student looking to study at a high-end institution with a smaller student body.
